Mr Timothy,

I was very much ſurprized to ſee you inſert in one of your late Gazettes, that the Controverſy between Arminius and J—— S—— was ended; when to my certain Knowledge, you have had the Copy laying in your Hands a conſiderable time, ſo hope you'll inſert it in your next and thereby undeceive the Publick, and in ſo doing you'll very much oblige many of your Readers.

Your humble Servant,
PHILALETHES.

 The Anſwer to ARMINIUS will be continued in our next.

The Congratulation.

Humbly addreſs'd to the Rev. Mr. Whitefield on his 68 Preachments in Forty Days, with the great and viſible Effects of Meat and Money that enſued therefrom, &c. &c. &c.

Great miracle of modeſty and ſence,
Recount thy pray'rs, & reckon up thy pence,
Secure, whilſt theſe you tell, & thoſe you ſhow
To meet your great Reward---at leaſt below.
But waving leſſer points for ſolid Thing,
We find from whom thy caſh & credit ſprings;
When duely touch'd by correſponding Tools
Loud ſounds the noble Symphony of Fools.
Sceptics no more conteſt thy pious Arts.
Of crazing noddles, and of cobbling Hearts,
When ſuch convincing Prodigies ariſe,
And Sin and Folly make us good and wiſe.
We ſee thy holy Proſelytes expoſe
Their Meekneſs, Truth & Charity in Proſe;
While in their matchleſs Poetry is ſhown
Genius & Senſe, not much unlike thy own.

MISANAIDES.
